

RUSSIA BLOWS UP AND BURNS DALNY, A CITY WHICH COST HER $200,000,000

JUDGE GANTT'S VOICE AGAINST BRIDGE MERGER

Author of Minority Opinion, Signed by Two Associates on Supreme Bench, Declares State Should Dissolve Terminal Consolidation.

LINES ARE RAILROADS IN MEANING OF STATE STATUTE

Majority Opinion Held That $50-000,000 Corporation Is Not Monopoly and That Lines Merged
Were Not Competitors.

Judge James B. Gantt of the Supreme Court, in his dissenting opinion in the celebrated Terminal case, which was recently decided against the state by a vote of four to three, the application for a writ of certiorari nullifying the Terminal's charter being denied, holds that the Terminal association is in fact and in the meaning of the law a railroad company, and that the original Terminal company, controlling Eads bridge, and the Merchants' Terminal Co., controlling Merchants' bridge, are individual railroads and prohibited from consolidation by the statutes.

THE SALIENT PARTS OF JUDGE GANTT'S OPINION.

Upon such consideration as I have been able to give it, I find myself unable to concur in the opinion of the court. The information alleged and the demurrer of the Terminal Railroad Association admits that it is a railroad company of the State of Missouri, which has acquired the railroad properties of the "Terminal Railroad Company," a railroad corporation organized for the purpose of constructing a place for gauge railroad from place to place on the eastern boundary line of the State of Missouri opposite the city of St. Louis where the present bridge known as the Eads bridge crosses the river, and the foot of Washington street in said city, thence
from said place on the eastern boundary
line of said state to a place near Poplar
street and the western limits of the city,
so as to make suitable connections
with the tracks of the Union Depot Co., the Missouri Pacific, the St. Louis, Iron Montana & Southern Railway Co., the Kansas City & Northern and other railroads having terminal at said city, the length of said railroad to be as near as may be six miles.

Details of the Agreement.

It is then averred at length that by an agreement of Aug. 17, 1893, the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis acquired and became the successor to all the properties of the Merchants' Bridge and Terminal Railway Co., and the lease of the St.
Louis Terminal Railway Co. of date of Jan.
2, 1892, and assumed its obligation and since
entering into said contract the association
dictates, formulates and controls the policy and business of the said Merchants' Bridge Terminal Railway Co., fixes and regulates and controls the tolls, charges
and prices to be paid in all freight and freight cars handled, transferred and conveyed by said Merchants' Bridge Terminal Railway Co., and the object of said agreement
is to prevent competition of said Merchants' Bridge Co. That said agreement so made between said competitive companies is illegal and void; that said contract is in violation of section 17 of article 12 of the Constitution of Missouri, and that said
lease is in conflict with the provisions of section 102 R. S. of Missouri, 1892, and against the public welfare and public policy of this state.

Disent from the Majority.

In the opinion of the majority there are not. We are not able to concur in that view. The language of the above provision of the Constitution is broad and comprehensive enough to include these terms.

RAIN, THEN COOLER WEATHER

Clouds Will Release Some of Their Contents Before Disappearing, Says Forecaster.

Promises of showers, like those of salary
payment to city employees, continue to be held out by the weather bureau. Though the cloudiness arrived, last night, only a few drops fell. The forecast:
Partly cloudy,
with showers to-
night and Friday;
clear, variable
winds.
Showers were reported this morning
in the lake region,
upper Mississippi
and Missouri valleys and in parts of Missouri. Cold weather continues throughout the northwest.
Pleasant temperatures gave place this morning to a hint of summer sultriness,
which the showers, if they come, are suggered to remove. The river continues to fall.

METHODISTS MAY PERMIT DANCING

Ban Against Card Games May Also Be Raised by Los Angeles Conference.

EACH CHURCH ITS JUDGE

Expulsion, Heretofore Obligatory, Likely to Be Made Optional With Congregational Authorities.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 12.—A question of importance which has come promi-nently to the fore in the Methodist general conference proceedings during the past 12 hours, is that involving a change in discipline to the extent of authorizing the church ban on the pleasures of dancing, card playing and theater-going.
It seems not unlikely that the conference
will vote to remove the present rigid restriction regarding the indulgence of these recreations.
The sub-committee of the committee on state of the church, of which J. S. Sibley is chairman, has reported back to the main body its recommendation upon this matter,
in which it urges a radical change in the church rule on the subject, making it simply an advisory restriction, instead of mandatory prohibition as at present.
Under the prevailing rule the member of the church who indulges in any of the refrain is guilty of a direct infraction of the rules of the church and may be punished by expulsion, but if the recommendations now proposed is adopted this penalty will be rendered entirely optional with the authorities.
The committee on state of the church has not decided definitely just what form the recommendation of the committee to the general conference will take, but it seems assured that it will propose some radical change in the discipline along the line outlined. This committee is also considering other important questions, among which are the proposed change in the constitution
which has met favor, if adopted, will reduce the membership of the general conference from 78 to 50.

MONTE MEN GOT TURLEY'S ROLL

Visitor From Kokomo Met a Man
Who "Owned the Indiana Building"
at the Fair.

"I'm no god darn sucker," said John Tur-ley of Kokomo, Ind., at the Delmar track Thursday when two chance acquaintances
invited him to investigate the merits of a three-card monte game.
"All right," said one of the men, who had just finished a round of cards, "I'll go against it for you." He followed his own suggestion and quickly won $25. Then he started away.
"Hold on there, that's mine, I guess,"
said Turley. "You said you were going to risk it for me."
"How do I know you had $25 to risk?"
said the red-whiskered man.
"I'll show you," said Turley, and diving
down into his pocket he produced a roll of bills, stripped off five fives and handed them over for the red-whiskered man's inspection.
While he turned a moment to watch a rummy struggle with a vicious man, Turley's friend disappeared. Ten minutes later he was on his way downtown, where he reported his loss to Chief Desmond.
Turley, who is 36 years old, whose Turley
was introduced to a red-whiskered man who told him he was from Indiana, had just sold his farm for $200 and was on his way down town.

The red-whiskered man told him he had lost some money at a very simple game
and he would like to see the game, but didn't intend to risk his money on it. The man who introduced him to the game told him he was from Indiana, had just sold his farm for $200 and was on his way down town.

LOWDEN LEADS FOR GOVERNOR OF ILLINOIS

Roosevelt's Move in His Behalf Helps
Him Greatly, but Yates Is Fighting
Hard and Sherman May Be Important Factor.

FEDERAL JUDGESHIP READY FOR GOVERNOR IF HE QUILTS

But If He Stays in the Race Until He Is Sure He Is Beaten, He Will Get Nothing—Cannon for Temporary and Permanent Chairman.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 12.—Efforts
lasting through the night failed to effect
anything that suggests a clearing of the atmosphere in the Illinois political game.
When the convention opened today, the fight was still between Lowden and Yates,
and may become three-cornered by Sherman's taking the third position.
To place Sherman in a three-cornered fight it will be necessary to concentrate all the anti-Yates strength possessed by Deneen and Hamlin on him, and there are possibilities of this being done after the first one or two roll calls.

If there is an advantage in the situation
between Lowden and Yates, it would seem to be possessed by Lowden. Since last night his lieutenants have confidently predicted his nomination, and Roosevelt's move in his behalf has strengthened him.
First, they hope for a sufficient number of delegates from Yates to nominate their man, but if Yates will not yield, they say he must fall fighting.

The delegates from Yates to the convention are not yet known, but the Yates
strength is generally expressed that the Yates
strength began to break up before the convention was called to order, but the governor's friends deny that there has been any change, in so far as his candidate is concerned.

Cannon Will Rule Convention.

Joseph G. Cannon of Danville, speaker of the National House of Representatives, is the temporary presiding officer of the convention, and very likely will be made the permanent chairman as well. The state central committee selected Speaker Cannon for chairman, and the selection is acceptable everywhere. There is no opposition to Mr. Cannon as permanent presiding officer, but the members-at-large on
two years ago in so acceptable a manner as to make him the unanimous choice for the present job.

Each candidate for governor has been invited to name one of his lieutenants as a proxy secretary, but the candidates have delayed until the last moment in naming
their men for this honor.

The committee has decided that each district member, and the members-at-large on the committee, call each of the congressional caucuses to order. This means that W. J. Butler will preside over the temporary organization of the Nineteenth district caucus, which is to name a member
on the credentials and various other committees of the convention.

Sangamon and Montgomery Counties
have contested the election of two counties
comprising the Nineteenth district, Christian, with nine delegates, was carried by Hamlin, and Macoupin, with 12 delegates, was carried by Yates. These two counties will perform the work of the Nineteenth
district caucus, and a big battle is expected.

For nearly 24 hours past, and those being the last ones to precede the call of the convention to order, the Yates people have been turning heaven and earth to keep their delegates in line. The weakened Yates followers have been bolstered up in every conceivable manner. All yesterday afternoon, last night and this morning Yates lieutenants have worked among the delegates whom they claim, with a story that "standing together now will win
the fight for their candidate." Their fear that delegates are about to get away in bunches only evidences the dire straits to which the governor's workers have been reduced. But with it all they are putting up as bold a front as possible under the difficulties that confront them. The Yates leaders and the holders of the jobs maintain to everyone that they don't see how Yates can be defeated. But it is impossible for them to hide their long faces even while doing such bolstering as this.

The slipping of the halter from the army
of federal officeholders over the state yesterday morning in Lowden's behalf put a big crimp in the Yates strength. Following this came the story that Yates had been offered a federal job, probably a judgeship, to withdraw. The standing of the men, and the political interests represented by them, who went with Lowden to put
the proposition squarely in front of Yates,
show the power of the combination that he is up against. Senators Cullom and Hopkins, Speaker Joseph G. Cannon and Judge Elliott Haukey are the men who accompanied Lowden when he called on Yates.
First, they made it plain to him that they were authorized to do business.

Yates asked for two roll calls in the convention, and was told that the offer
was good only for immediate acceptance.
Following all his precedents of having to be shown, Yates insisted upon the two roll calls and was told that, if he insisted upon being "rolled off," he would be left out in the cold altogether.

Frank O. Lowden of Chicago.

TROLLEYS CRASH; ELEVEN INJURED

Union Avenue Line Motorman Collided With St. Louis Avenue Car
on His First Run.

In a collision between a northbound
Union avenue car of the Suburban railway and a westbound St. Louis avenue car of the Transit company at Union and St.
Louis avenues about 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night, eleven persons were injured,
none seriously.

Ernest Debelie, aged 32, of 1518 Converse street, East St. Louis, motorman of the Union avenue car, was caught under the motor box of his car, sustaining a severe bruise to his right leg. He was taken to the City Hospital.

The others injured were: John O'Toole,
612 Ridge avenue, conductor of Union avenue car, cut by flying his arm bang out the windows of the old car.
This afternoon, however, his elbow was
jammed in such shape against the car
window sill that he could not move till the
car had passed, and his arm had been
fearfully lacerated and broken.

The car for treatment a block farther west
Dr. Allen was removed to the office of
Dr. S. L. Nield, 207 Easton avenue, that
his wounds might be dressed.

The car on which the injured man was riding was No. 225 in charge of Conductor Justus.

ARM SHATTERED BY PASSING CAR

Women Passengers on Easton Avenue Car Injured by Glass From Broken Window.

An elderly man named Allen was the victim of a serious accident on an eastbound Easton avenue street car at 1:30 p. m. this afternoon, as the result of letting his elbow
protrude from the car window.

A car approaching from the opposite direction struck the member, breaking a glass window and hurling fragments
through the car, and injuring several women passengers.

Large, wide cars having been substituted
for narrower ones, Mr. Allen was not aware that the distance between two cars meeting and passing in different directions was less than six inches. He had never been caught by letting his arm hang out the windows of the old cars.

This afternoon, however, his elbow was
jammed in such shape against the car
window sill that he could not move till the
car had passed, and his arm had been
fearfully lacerated and broken.

The car for treatment a block farther west
Dr. Allen was removed to the office of
Dr. S. L. Nield, 207 Easton avenue, that
his wounds might be dressed.

Negro Official Honored.

A reception and banquet will be given
this evening by the Roosevelt Negro Republican Club at Douglas Hall, Lawton
avenue and Beaumont street, to John C.
Duney, negro recorder of deeds in the District of Columbia. He will deliver an address to the club. There will also be a number of other speakers and musical numbers.

9,000,000 BU WHEAT BURNING.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 12.—The Port
Winnipeg wheat elevators containing 9,000, 000 bushels of wheat, are on fire, and it is likely they will be entirely destroyed.

Rather Than Let This Port Fall Into the Hands of the Japanese, the Czar's Officials, with Explosives and Flames, Sweep Away
the Work of Years.

REPORTS INDICATE PORT ARTHUR IS ATTACKED

IT WOULD BE STUPENDOUS FOLLY TO ABANDON DALNY WROTE CASSINI

"Upon the basis of the rights to commercial exploitation thus peacefully obtained, Russia built a railway into and through Manchuria. She built bridges, roads and canals. She has built cities whose rapid construction and wonderful strides in population and industry have no parallel, certainly in Europe and Asia, perhaps even in America. Harbin and Dalny are monuments to Russian progressiveness and civilization. These great undertakings, wonderful even in a day of marvelous human accomplishment, have cost Russia more than $300,000,000. To have abandoned them in the face of the menacing attitude of an ambitious and daring nation would have been an act of stupendous folly that would have made Russia not only the laughing-stock, but the object of the scornful pity, of the whole civilized world. Had the menace not existed, however, had China not failed to offer satisfactory guarantees of adequate protection to Russia's interests in Manchuria, Russia would have cheerfully continued to carry out her arrangement with China for the withdrawal of the imperial military forces from Chinese territory."—Count Cassini, Russian ambassador to the United States, in the May number of the North American Review.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 12.—4:30 P. M.—Telegrams received here this afternoon indicate that the whole of Port Dalny has been destroyed by the Russians.

The dispatches do not say this was done today, and it is regarded as likely now that the city was blown up and burned earlier in the week and that all the Russians there have fled.

This may account for the explosions heard near Port Arthur Monday.

Dalny was to have been the Moscow of the East, but before its completion it is destroyed, as was the real Moscow when Napoleon was advancing on it.

It is reported that the Japanese are attacking Port Arthur today.

DESCRIPTION OF DALNY AND WHAT IT WAS WORTH TO THE RUSSIANS

Port Dalny, on Talienwan Bay, on the east coast of the Liao Tung peninsula,
was intended by Russia to be the chief
commercial emporium of its eastern districts. An act providing for its construction was issued by the Russian Emperor July 30, 1899, and Port Dalny, fully equipped with all modern improvements,
docks, warehouses and railroad facilities,
was opened to commerce in December, 1901.

A MAGNIFICENT HARBOR.

Talienwan Bay is one of the finest deep-water harbors on the Pacific. It is free from ice in winter time and ships drawing 20 feet of water can enter at low tide
without difficulty and without the aid of pilots, can sail or steam alongside the immense docks and piers, where their cargoes can be loaded into railroad cars and run direct for 600 miles into the city of St. Petersburg. Five large piers had been constructed, each supplied with numerous
railroad tracks and immense warehouses
and elevators, gas, electric lights and water, and a large breakwater was being constructed so that ships could lie at

the piers and load and unload regardless of weather.
Docks for foreign vessels, steam and sail,
extended between the piers and along the shore for two miles. There were two first-class dry docks, one intended for ordinary ocean steamers and the other designed to accommodate the largest vessels of war
or commerce.

IT COST $200,000,000.

The cost of building Dalny has been estimated at over $200,000,000. Why it was never better fortified has never been made known to the Russian populace. Aside from thickly mining the harbor no serious effort was made to protect the place from the Japanese and it was inevitable that it should fall into their hands as soon as they should move to take it.

Six million dollars had been expended on the harbor system before the end of 1902
and it was estimated that the cost of completing the works would be $20,000,
000. It, with Port Arthur, distant about 20 miles, was leased by the Chinese government to Russia in 1898.

Nearly 25,000 men were employed daily
on the work of constructing the port and town. The total population has been estimated at about 40,000, mostly Chinese,
Japanese, Koreans and Russians.

LAND BATTLE IS NOW ON NEAR NEW-CHWANG

SHAN HAI KWAN, May 12, 8
p. m.—Firing is reported to have been heard south of New-Chwang
and a battle is probably in progress.

TOKIO, May 12, 8 p. m.—Official inquiry shows that Viceroy Alexieff's report that railroad communication with Port Arthur has been restored since Monday is untrue.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 12.—From the official advices received here, it is evident that the Japanese are proceeding
cautiously toward the investment of Port Arthur. While an interruption of the telegraph and railroad may again occur at any time, communication with the fortress was still open last night.

Advices received by the general staff
show that the invaders, who landed at Pitsow, are marching slowly on Kin-Chow, which is an advanced position defending the Russian Gibraltar.
The Russians have occupied Bathao Bay,
on the east side of the Liao Tung peninsula, opposite Kin-Chow, showing that they have no intention of withdrawing to the south. The indications point to stubborn resistance.

The presence at Port Arthur of Gen.
Puck, reported in the official dispatches,
may signify that the garrison of the fortress is much stronger than the Russians may think. The Russian division of 10,000 men. If the whole division is on the Liao Tung peninsula, Gen. Puck has at least 10,000 men at his disposal which would be a formidable force.

CHINA APPARENTLY IS READY TO TAKE A HAND.

Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1904, by the Press Publishing Co.)
LONDON, May 12.—The Standard's correspondent at Tien Tien telegraphs:
"Although an extremely deprecating comment of an alarmist nature, I am of the opinion that the procedure of the Chinese government calls for careful observation."
The present military activity and the accumulation of funds in Peking are not entirely associated with the Russian war.
"Great uneasiness is felt by educated
Chinese lest the folly of 1902 be repeated.
The Liberals, who have been protesting against certain military preparations, are now reported to be out of favor in Peking
now in consequence."

It is reported to be wise to strengthen their position unobtrusively and to observe every movement closely. The Chinese government is reported to be negotiating a loan with a foreign bank ostensibly to obtain funds for the celebration of the Dowager Empress' birthday.

"IT IS MANIFEST I AM DEFEATED"

—JAMES A. REED

Kansas City Man Formally Withdraws From Race for Democratic Nomination for Governor.

LEAVES FIELD TO MR. FOLK

Says in Card, "To Prolong the Contest Would Be Without Substantial Results."

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 12.—Mayor James A. Reed has quit. He says he is defeated in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor and he has no desire to prolong an unprofitable contest. In announcing his formal withdrawal, he gives out the following card, timing it to make the Folk meeting, announced for tonight, a jollification: "It is now manifest that the circumstances, as deflected the contest would be without substantial results. I shall not, therefore, submit my name in any more counties. "I sincerely thank my friends for their earnest support, and at the same time fully release them from all obligations to myself, either expressed or implied. It is needless to add that, as in the past, I shall loyally support the nominee of the Democratic convention."

Reed Wanted to

Aid Jollification

Mr. Reed says laughingly, in referring to his withdrawal, that he purposely delayed it to see what effect it would have on the Folk meeting and to make his withdrawal from the race as pleasant as possible for his opponent.

The formal withdrawal of the Kansas City candidate from the race has been expected for some time. His managers have recognized the inevitableness of his defeat for several weeks, ever since Mr. Folk began making the weekly clean sweeps of the counties.

STILETTO OWNER ARRESTED.

Joseph Bocho, of 4331 North Jefferson avenue, when arrested by detectives Greeley and Urban Thursday morning on a charge of threatening to kill a young man of the neighborhood named Kraus, was found to have a loaded revolver in his possession. On the way to the North Market street police station in a patrol wagon, Bocho drew a stiletto, but was prevented from striking by Detective Greeley, who grabbed his wrist and wrested the blade away. At the same time, a fine piece of steel eight inches long, was found. He is held for carrying concealed weapons.

"PE-RU-NA SAVED MY LIFE,"

Writes Mrs. W. McRoberts.

A Young Mother's Letter.

Mrs. W. McRoberts, writes to Dr. Hartman from Delano, Miss., the following:

Delano, Miss.
Dear Sir: "I feel perfectly well of health. I did as you directed me to and took Peruna and Munalin. The third of March I gave birth to a ten-pound baby girl and we are both well and happy. I am very thankful to you and Peruna saved my life. I recommend it to everyone and can't praise it enough. "I send you my own and my baby's picture. She is so sweet and good—she is a Peruna baby. I have such good health now. I do all my housework and take care of my baby and feel so good. "There are three or four of my neighbors using Peruna now since it did me so much good. They were just run down, and they think it is fine, it is so good to give strength."—Mrs. W. McRoberts.

We have thousands of testimonials from mothers concerning the benefit of Peruna to their babies.

IS BILLING FOR DOGS TO BITE HIM

J. Otis Fellows Is Anxious to Prove There Is No Such Thing as Hydrophobia.

BITTEN HUNDREDS OF TIMES

Claims to Be the Oldest Spaniel Breeder in America and "Knows His Business."

HORNELLVILLE, N. Y., May 12.—On his business cards J. Otis Fellows of Hornellville describes himself thus: "The oldest spaniel breeder in America and never bred a crooked leg or light eye." He adds, "You can't teach your grumpy to suck eggs." He has been in the dog business for more than forty years.

These things are here noted to show that if Mr. Fellows—or rather Uncle Dick, to call him by the name by which he is best known—declares that there is no such thing as hydrophobia, he has had at least an opportunity of studying the question. And he does make that assertion.

Uncle Dick believes the dog is much abused and misunderstood. He will not be convinced that there is such a disease as hydrophobia and challenges the medical fraternity to produce such a case. He goes further and expresses his willingness to allow any dog that is supposed to have hydrophobia to bite him, and all he asks in return is that his expenses shall be paid until the wound heals.

He declares that hydrophobia is all imagination and the invention of physicians and specialists to secure practice. As he puts it, "It is a graft."

"I have handled 20,000 dogs a year, and have been bitten hundreds of times, and care no more for a dog bite than a scratch of a pin," he said. "Foolish and unreasonable scares have prevailed ever since attention was drawn to Pasteur and his crank followers 30 years ago."

This has had a bad effect on the public mind, magnifying the danger of a very rare disease, which is so slight that it does not deserve public notice. Many other diseases, such as tetanus, epilepsy, mania, cerebro-spinal meningitis, have been mistaken for hydrophobia. Similar symptoms have been induced in some cases by intestinal worms, morbid growths and other disturbing causes.

Mad Dogs Are

Crazed by Pain.

"I know, of course, that a dog with colic or earache or toothache or worms or epileptic fits is always called a mad dog. A callow reporter sees or hears of the case and under a scare heading he magnifies it to a lot of harm, but you may rest assured that there never was a genuine case of rabies in America."

"Some years ago the American Kennel Club had a committee appointed to investigate hydrophobia, and they reported just as I say. Whenever I hear of any city with a lot of mad dogs, I send the writer to the specimen they can procure him, just to prove that the dog is not mad. None has as yet accepted my offer."

The health department in some cities keeps a lot of guinea pigs, and the purpose of finding out whether a dog dies of rabies or not. If a dog bites a person the dog is killed and a portion of the brain is extracted. This is injected into the body of a guinea pig.

"Of course, the pig dies suffering intense agony, and the person who was bitten is sent to the Pasteur institution for treatment. Would not the blister and force pump treatment be better and cheaper? It is my invention and I give any city or persons permission to use it."

"I think the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals should prosecute every health department that practices such acts of cruelty on guinea pigs. Let me tell you of a case that shows how people who have been bitten by a dog act and how easily they are cured. We will call him Mr. H., for that is his correct initial."

"He is a man who weighs 220 pounds and is 5 feet 2 inches tall, a perfect specimen of manhood. One day he was teasing a dog, which he was holding by the neck, and the dog bit him on the cheek. The papers had just been publishing a lot about rabid dogs. The man was badly frightened and his friends made him worse."

One Case Was

Pure Imagination.

"The first thing to do was to kill the dog. I was paid $5 to kill him. I took the dog and my rifle and put the dog in the back of my car and drove him to the city. The man got worse, and drank a lot of whiskey to keep up his courage. The ninth day he was a very sick man. Then he began to grow up and back, and he was all right and roth at the mouth, just as they told him he would."

"The doctor and I knew he was only shamming. During his lucid periods we told him that the only way to save his life was to draw the poison out of his system. He said for us to do anything to save him from a horrible death by hydrophobia."

"We had a large force pump taken to his room. The doctor gave him an opiate; we cleared the room and put a blister all over his back; the pump got the pump to a big noise and washed a piece of liver in a big wash bowl."

"When the man woke up we showed him in the wash bowl all the poison we had taken out of his system. He was all right and slept on his back for two months."

"My share of the graft was $25, and I sold the dog that bit him for $25 more, so altogether, including the $5 they paid me to shoot the dog, I came in for $55."

"There is no doubt that the force of imagination and whiskey would have killed the man had he not seen the evidence in the bowl and had not the pain in his back prevented him from thinking about mad dogs and hydrophobia."

"This case was just like all other cases or rabies in this country—the result of imagination."

REJECTED SUITOR GIVES FURNITURE

Girl Who Jilted Him After He Secured
Marriage License Weds Rival
With Feasting.

SHE WAVERED FOR WEEKS

Friends Indulge in Great Merriment
at Wedding Following Departure of Disappointed Swain.

To complete the happiness of the girl who had rejected him for another after he had secured their marriage license, Joseph Nauds of Collinsville gave her all the furniture he had collected for what he expected would be their home, presented the unused license to the priest, whom he had expected to perform the ceremony and left the town, saying he did not expect to return.

For many months Nauds had wooed Veronica Balnewick of Maryville, Ill., and so successful did he believe his suit that he furnished a house in Collinsville, procured a license in Edwardsville and went to the girl's home to ask her consent. Nauds' rival, Simon Pantellicis, heard of the preparations, hurried to Edwardsville, secured a license to marry Miss Balnewick and visited her home with the document.

The maiden wavered for several weeks and finally decided in favor of Pantellicis. Nauds promptly accepted her decision, gave her all the furniture he had purchased and left.

Sorrow for her rejected lover was forgotten by Miss Balnewick in preparations for her wedding, which will long be remembered in Maryville. At the feast after the ceremony, which closed Wednesday night, 26 hams, two quarters of beef, 40 half barrels of beer and 600 loaves of bread were used. The foreign custom of hurling dollars at a china plate for the privilege of dancing with the bride, which yields a dance if the plate is broken, and deprives the thrower of a dollar in any event, was observed with such enthusiasm that, after paying the expenses of the feast, Mrs. Pantellicis had $450 with which to start housekeeping.

PARKER MEN CONTROL; INDIANA FOR UNIT RULE

Convention Opens at Indianapolis
With Twelve of the Thirteen Congressional Districts Solid for the Candidacy of New York Jurist.

HEARST MEN WILL SEND CONTESTING DELEGATIONS

These Will Be From the Second, Sixth, Ninth, Tenth and Thirteenth Districts—Kern Denounces Importation of Workers From Other States.

BY SAMUEL G. BLYTHE,
Staff Correspondent New York World
and the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 12.—Indiana Democrats have told William Randolph Hearst where to get off. He carried only one of the thirteen district conventions held to select two delegates each to St. Louis—the Twelfth. His supporters bolted in the Second, Sixth, Ninth, Tenth and Thirteenth districts and sent contesting delegations before the credentials committee.

The Parker men, led by Thomas Taggart, carried all but the Twelfth district. The credentials committee, which was organized by the Parker men, denied the Hearst contestants seats in the convention.

The Hearst delegates from the Second and Tenth districts will go to St. Louis, they say, and will press their claims before the credentials committee of the National convention.

The net result is that the state convention today to elect the four delegates at large to St. Louis will instruct all delegates for Parker, and will apply the unit rule. Hearst is routed everywhere.

The convention today has 1547 delegates. Hearst has some four hundred of these. It is the plan of the Parker men to allow the Hearst followers to talk as much as they want to and to placate until they are tired. A. G. Smith, who will be permanent chairman, will allow full and free debate. Then the screws will be put on and the convention will instruct for Parker and will vote the unit rule.

After that if any of the Hearst men want to go to St. Louis as contestants, they will be at liberty to do so, but they will have no credentials and Taggart is confident their claims will not be recognized.

It is part of the plan to have the convention endorse Taggart for chairman of the national committee.

Hearst's Campaign
Very Expensive.

Hearst has made a vigorous campaign in this state. It is reported that he has spent large sums of money. He certainly has been liberal with the delegates here. He quartered them in the best hotel in town, paid for their meals and otherwise entertained them. He will get nothing in return, for the two delegates from the Twelfth district, whom he elected, will be forced to vote for Judge Parker under the unit rule.

Taggart has his Parker headquarters at the Grand Hotel, two blocks from the Claypool, where Hearst dispenses hospitality. The Parker men were contented with the lobby, the bar and the two parlors on the first floor, where Taggart has his offices.

Hearst is more munificent. He has room after room at the Claypool. There is a suite for general headquarters, where his loyal manager, J. Oscar Henderson, formerly state auditor, sits at a roll-top desk and talks of the chances of the candidate.

There are three hundred delegates in the hall, one for each of the delegations from the thirteen congressional districts. In addition the great assembly hall in the hotel is thrown open to what is called the "William Randolph Hearst League," where the spellbinders do their work and the delegates shout until they are hoarse.

The care taken of the delegates by the Hearst managers is solicitous, not to say fatherly.

John W. Kern, known as the leading Democrat of the state, and who was the candidate for governor in 1920 and is known as the close adviser and personal friend of William J. Bryan, called in the reporters and handed out a few ideas about Mr. Hearst that were received with shouts of glad acclaim at the Parker headquarters.

At the Parker headquarters, Mr. Kern gave out an interview on the same subject that stizzled, but the one today was rebuffed.

He said in part: "We are menaced for the first time in the history of the Republic by the open and unblinking effort of a multimillionaire to purchase the presidential nomination. Our state has been overrun by a gang of paid agents and retainers. It is a new day in Indiana, and is called Hearstism."

"I see no way of properly rejecting this disgraceful business except by speaking out against it in the convention, and there is no way to speak save by instructions. As for the paid Hearstians from other states who are here to instruct the Indiana democracy in its duty, I have nothing but contempt. Their presence here is an insult to every delegate to this convention. The Hearst dollar mark is all over them and the odor of corrupt methods which clings to their garments makes them unfit associates for the Hendricks and McDonald democracy of Indianapolis."

"Hip, hip, hip," shouted the Parker people. "That's the way to talk at 'em."

More Hearst leaders from outside are here. Clarence S. Darrow of Chicago, the lawyer who represented the miners before the anthracite coal strike commission; C. A. Vinole, editor of the Chicago Gullwing; the Rev. Sam Small of Georgia, who has been stumping for Hearst in various parts of the country; joined M. F. Dunlop, treasurer of the Democratic national committee and Charles A. Walsh of Iowa, secretary of the same committee.

The Indiana Democrats made a great point of this importation of outside talent. They said the Democrats of Indiana are competent to run their own affairs without the help of people from Chicago and Iowa and Georgia and other places. There was a good deal of comment on the feature of the Hearst campaign at the Grand Hotel, where the Hearst leaders do not seem to mind taking orders from these strangers. They sit at their feet and listened to words of prophecy and cheer.

Since Monday, the fight of the Hearst leaders has been to get the Parker delegation for Hearst, for they did not believe they could do that, as to prevent instructions. Taggart played the game cleverly. He let the fight against instructions get good and heated, then he trotted out the big Democrats of the state one by one—Menzies, Kern, Lamb, Ex-Senator, Purple and all the rest—and had them declare that the only thing to do is to adopt the unit rule and instruct for Parker.

"There has been some opposition to instructions, but the attitude of the Hearst Democrats settled that," Taggart said.

WENTZ FAMILY REFUTE VERDICT

Father of Dead Millionaire Insists on Murder Theory and Will Keep Detectives at Work.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—Dr. John S. Wentz, father of A. L. Wentz, who was found dead in Virginia, believes that his son was murdered. The verdict of the coroner's jury of accidental death has not affected this conviction. Dr. Wentz gave out this statement:

"My son did not commit suicide. He had no reason whatever of doing such a thing. Some people would like to show that he killed in order to clear themselves of his murder, but their plan will not work. Edward did not have a revolver with him when he disappeared. All the weapons he owned have been found in his home at Higgs Gap.

"As for the statement that he had differences with me over business matters and

PRINCE CUPID IS AT FAIR.

Ex-Queen and Party Will Depart Soon for Hawaii.

Prince Joseph Kaimanole, better known as "Prince Cupid," nephew of former Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii, is now with her at the Inside Inn, where he arrived Wednesday afternoon from Washington. The ex-queen has spent much of the time in her room or on the porch of the hotel. She has made only a few visits to the fair buildings. The party will probably leave Saturday for Hawaii. They may return in the fall for the closing weeks of the Exposition.

HALF-RATE FOR ALL WHO BUY FAIR STOCK FROM HOLDERS.

Holders of World's Fair stock have the privilege of purchasing 50 tickets of admission at half price. Those holding more than one share will be permitted to transfer the stock, and for each share the same privilege will be granted. Those who hold a number of shares of stock can now divide them into one share lots and transfer them. For each share so transferred the Exposition company will sell 50 tickets at half price.

But one lot of 50 tickets at this rate will be sold on one share lot, but if the stock is divided into one-share lots and transferred, 50 tickets will be issued on each share.

$1000 OFFERED FOR A KIDNAPED CHILD

Rich Sympathizers of Poor Mrs. McCahill Try to Recover Her Little Girl.

MOTHER CRAZED BY GRIEF

Too Poor to Pay Her Way, She Trudges Many Miles on a False Clew.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 12.—Moved by sympathy and compassion for Mrs. McCahill, the hardworking widow whose only child, Josephine, was in all probability kidnapped a few days ago, and as an added incentive to the speedy rescue of the child and the capture and conviction of her abductor, Senator James J. Fawcett, Tammany leader of the Thirty-second Assembly district, and Isaac A. Hopper of the Hopper Construction company, have each offered a reward of $1000 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who kidnapped this child.

Meanwhile, Mrs. McCahill is in a serious condition at her home, 1339 Third avenue, as a result of the physical strain and fatigue which she underwent Friday in her fruitless search for the little girl so dear to her.

Twenty miles is the distance which Mrs. McCahill must have traveled on foot, for she was too proud to ask assistance from neighbors or friends who would have supplied her with transportation.

Yesterday, about noon, Mrs. McCahill received a letter from Peter E. Palla, chief of police, at Ridgewood, N. Y., telling her that eight miles in the country from that place was a little child under medical treatment, name unknown, who it was believed, had been stolen, and suggesting that Mrs. McCahill come to Ridgewood and drive out in the country and look at the child and see if it was her Josephine.

The almost frenzied mother started at five o'clock in the afternoon for Ridgewood. Her husband, who is a seaman, she walked from 102d street and third avenue to the Port Lee ferry, at One Hundred and Thirtieth street, North river, a distance of three miles, took the ferry and then a trolley car to No. 102d street.

Here Mrs. McCahill started to walk to Ridgewood, a distance of seven miles over rough country roads and much of the way through the woods. She arrived at the Ridgewood police station at 9 o'clock at night, only to be told that it had been learned that the child in the country, eight miles further, was named Converse.

Anxious, lest some news of her lost child might have reached home during her absence, she bravely started back on her seven mile tramp to Patterson and by trolley to Port Lee, and then walked the three miles to her home.

After tolling up five flights of stairs she fell at her own door at 1:40 o'clock in the morning, and was only revived by the kind who is caring for her. With not a mouthful to eat in her 20-mile journey, covering nine hours, she sank back on the bed and begged for news of the child, only to be told that no news had come. Her feet were so swollen that her shoes had to be cut from them, and yesterday she was almost crazed with anxiety.

"Oh, that I only knew that she was dead!" cried the grief-stricken mother yesterday in her delirium. "This uncertainty is killing me. I never cease to pray for the child's return, but I am almost crazed with grief."

The distracted woman told the truth. She was very near the verge of losing her mind, and a doctor from the Harlem Hospital, who was summoned, who gave her a sedative and something to allay the burning fever. The police of the Twenty-third precinct are still in their power to find the child, and four men are constantly working in the case, but thus far without a single ray of hope.

"As much has been done to find this poor little boy as I could do," said the sergeant at the desk.

MOTHER IS ANXIOUS FOR HER DAUGHTER'S RETURN.

MISS GRACE FLETCHER.

Mrs. George Marker of 1115 Chambers street, is anxious for the return home of her daughter, Miss Grace Fletcher, 14 years old, who went on a river excursion May 8, and did not return. Fearing correction, the mother thinks, led her to absent herself and go to the home of a girl friend.

The mother is willing to forgive all if the daughter will return home. The young lady is feet 4 inches tall, weighed 120 pounds, and had a birth mark over her left eye.

"SHE SIMPLY PUTS MOTHER TO SHAME"

This Is the O. K. Rev. Brownback Puts on the Culinary Accomplishments of His Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
READING, Pa., May 12.—Here is the certificate of character given to Miss Blanche De Cou by the Rev. George W. Brownback when he led her to the altar and made her the chaste and pure wife of his paragon, the wedding being the culmination of a two years' search by the bridegroom for "the ideal wife."

HAIR—Dark.
EYES—Dark.
FINANCIAL STANDING—Sufficient.
TEMPER—Soft as the summer breeze.
PIEMAKING—A past master of the art.
CAKE BUILDING—An artist of the first water.

AGE—Between "sweet 16" and "attractive 30."
HEADMAKING—She simply puts mother to shame.

MANNE—Not a "street angel" and "house devil."
KITCHEN QUEEN—The best that ever ruled a realm.
MEAT COOKING—Expert with the oven.

SMILE—Lingering and of the kind that won't come off.
FASHION—Hair to sunshiny, with he squalls in sight.

RELIGIOUS INCLINATIONS—The proper amount of piety.
GOSSIP—Abhorrent as holy water is to the saint.

DISPOSITION—Obedient, giving husband right of way over mother.
FAMILY CONNECTIONS—Not burdened with one who would be troublesome mother-in-law.

This most happy union of the seeker and the sought proves the old saying that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach is true. Mr. Brownback admits that he did not know he had met his affinity until he had met her pies and cake and bread and they were his. Then he suddenly awoke to the fact that it was a case of love at first sight. Another helping of pie confirmed him in this belief, and the second slab of angel cake was simply all convincing.

Then he told the publisher of his matrimonial paper in which his "ad."—with its detailed plans and specifications of the ideal wife—was appearing to kill it, as he had landed his prize.

Then Blanche wrote him "the most beautiful letters" he received from any of the 1200 young women who read in his list of requirements a perfect pen portrait of themselves. So the reverend gentleman was assured of the best of fodder, while at home and the ne plus ultra of correspondence when he should happen to be absent from the family roof.

Now he says he is glad to be at rest, and he will feel still gladder and more content if those of his 1200 correspondents who haven't quit writing him letters full of hope and sweet nothing would stop squandering their money on scented note paper and postage stamps. He is a married man now and doesn't think it is quite right in this he is cordially supported by his "ideal."

The "Smoking Tree."
In Japan is a tree called the "smoking tree," which has little clouds resembling smoke hanging over its topmost branches. It is an emanation which the tree gives out under the effect of sunlight.

THE PEOPLE ALL
In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This word of late has been in everyone's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists, 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Rabotau & Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., special agents in St. Louis.

NEIGHBORS FIGHT, AGED WOMAN SHOT

Child's Alleged Mischief in Ringing Doorbell Precipitates Quarrel With Serious Ending.

Mrs. Lizzie Pallett, 65 years old, living at 2419 Cass avenue, is at her home suffering from a serious bullet wound in her left thigh and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuss of 2419A Cass avenue are under arrest charged with assault with intent to kill. The alleged assault followed a fight on the sidewalk at the Pallett home Wednesday night, which, the police say, grew out of a quarrel between Mrs. Pallett and Mrs. Kuss, because the latter's 7-year-old son persisted in mischievously ringing the Pallett door bell.

In the fight, at least two revolvers were used. The noise of the firing attracted nearby neighbors, among them Deputy Sheriff J. J. McCann, who placed Mr. and Mrs. Kuss under arrest. According to the statement of Mrs. Pallett's son, William, she was not engaged in the fight, but was hit by a stray bullet intended for her son, Robert.

Mrs. Pallett and her two sons, each of whom is about 20 years old, live upstairs. Mr. and Mrs. Kuss and their little son live upstairs. According to Wm. Pallett, when Mrs. Pallett spoke to Mrs. Kuss Wednesday concerning the boy she resented it and a quarrel followed.

The fight in which Mrs. Pallett was shot, occurred about 7 o'clock in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Kuss were passing the window when Robert Pallett went outside and began talking to them regarding the quarrel earlier in the day.

According to William Pallett, the first shot was fired by Mrs. Kuss, who was followed by her husband. Mrs. Kuss and William Pallett grappled each other while Kuss and Robert Pallett struggled inside the house where Pallett fell after the first shot. It is said a bullet grazed Pallett's chest, causing him to fall backward, but did not result in serious injury.

While Kuss and Pallett struggled inside the house, a stray bullet from Kuss' revolver, it is said, struck Mrs. Pallett. Owing to her advanced age her condition is regarded as grave.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Highball, the thoroughbred, which was regarded as the 2-year-old champion of last season, is reported to have bowed a tendon in his last race at Morris Park, and has been taken back to Sheepshead Bay for treatment. The colt, which is owned by Wm. Scheffer, valued at $60,000, probably will not be able to race for some time.

BORAXOLOGY

The first lesson in Boraxology is bathology—how to take a bath that really cleanses.

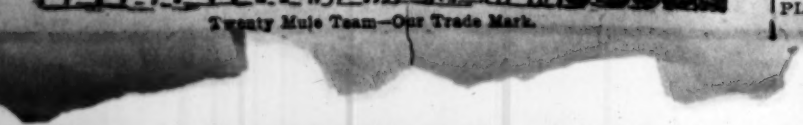

Like all good ologies, it is simple—put BORAX in the bath water.

And if you ask "why," the Boraxologist answers, "because it softens the water and thereby doubles the cleansing power." BORAX cleanses the pores and makes the skin white and healthy.

But like most every good thing, Borax is imitated and adulterated.

THE TERMINAL DECISION.

The demurrer of the Terminal Railroad Association to the quo warranto proceeding of Attorney-General Crow was sustained by a majority of only one, the court dividing by a vote of four to three. In his majority opinion which was concurred in by Judges Brace, Burgess and Fox, Judge Valliant argues that the Terminal Railroad is not a railroad within the meaning of the constitution. It is difficult to comprehend the meaning of the distinction he draws between a railroad running outside the boundaries of a city and one running outside to see the pertinence of his business argument in favor of the consolidation of railway terminals, unless it was intended to strengthen his legal theory.

Judge Gantt, in his dissenting opinion, concurred in by Judges Robinson and Marshall, offers a brief, but clear and convincing answer to Judge Valliant's point when he argues that the language of the constitution is broad enough to include terminal railroads and that its scope is not limited to trunk lines. Specifically he says, "The Terminal Association and the Merchants' Bridge Terminal Railroad Co. were both organized under the general railroad law of this state to construct, maintain and operate standard gauge railroads in the state, and having accepted their charters from the state under the general railroad law, they are estopped to deny that they are railroads within the meaning of the constitution, which prohibits any railroad company from consolidating with a parallel, or competing, railroad."

It is gratifying to learn from Assistant Attorney-General Jeffries that "the fight against the terminal monopoly has only begun" and that the resources of the legal department are not exhausted. It is to be hoped that the attorney-general and his assistants will find a way to convince a majority of the supreme court judges that a terminal railroad is a railroad and that a monopoly, although a fine business arrangement, is illegal. Fortunately this decision does not affect the case against the bridge combine now pending in the war department of the United States, nor put any obstacle in the way of proceedings by the federal authorities under the interstate commerce law or the anti-trust law.

People who expect to visit the World's Fair should take care to inform themselves well in regard to hotel and boarding house charges. The false reports of extortion put in circulation by malicious or careless persons have deceived many. With a little care and common sense any visitor can be protected from imposition.

ADJUST ITSELF AFTER THE FAIR.

According to rumor in official circles "it is believed now that the bond matter will probably adjust itself at the end of the Fair, as the ordinance stipulates that machinery and properties of the Fair shall not be removed until the park restoration is amply provided for."

The ordinance provides that a bond shall be given before the Fair opens. It is likely that an ordinance suffered to fall into disrepute at the beginning will have vigor enough to insure its design in the end.

Besides every consideration of purchase, except the interest of honor, will urge the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co. to conative at the prevention of the removal of a lot of junk.

In the light of these facts, the assurance that "the bond matter will adjust itself" is an admirable sarcasm, worthy of all praise for its rhetorical merit, but the public official who offers it to save himself from public condemnation for gross neglect of duty should borrow a manly man's conscience and cherish it long enough to generate a blush.

The crushing of two men in St. Louis and one in New York, who were caught between trolley cars, demonstrates that the increasing width of the cars offer a new menace to human life. As the street car tracks are now laid the increased size of the cars do not permit of the passing of any but the slenderest body between two passing cars. The cars are being increased in size to reduce the expenses of the companies, and thus swell the profits. Why are the street railway companies permitted to found so much profit on the destruction of human lives and limbs?

THE SOCIOLOGICAL MOLE ST. NICHOLAS.

Prof. Starr of Chicago University issues the following warning on his return from the Orient:

"If Japan is victorious over Russia, her triumph will mean the ultimate annihilation of the white nations of the earth by the yellow races of the Orient."

The University of Chicago is the sociological Mole St. Nicholas and we get more news of a terrifying character from that point than from all other news sources put together.

But we are not a bit scared because we have observed that the news from the mole often bears traces of humorous manipulation. We were solemnly told that Rockefeller was a greater genius than Shakespeare. Another member of the staff at the mole issued a bulletin about kissing. Other announcements show the true character of the mole. Prof. Starr is only making game of us. He is a practical joker, a humorist like his colleagues.

Let us hope the mole will be well supported. The staff should be kept up to the mark of efficiency. We can't get along without the news of the mole.

Mr. Riley and the Weather.

I went to Indiana, and on Whitcomb Riley's block
Received some information that produced
a painful shock:
For Mr. Riley, who for years has loyally
been used
The climate of his native state to laud,
admire and boost,
Is so disgusted at the ill the weather
has been brewing—
Especially in winter, when there's always something doing—
That he has said, with what would seem unnecessary force,
That he has changed his estimate, and
hence will change his course,
And whenever he is moved to put his thoughts in rhyme
He'll tell the simple truth about the vaunted Hoosier climate.

II.
O Mr. Riley! this indeed to us is quite a blow,
Because you sang so blithely of "Knee-
deep in June," you know,
And "Down Around the River," and sweet dreams in us you bred.
By talking of "the locus blooms a'droppin'
on the shed,"
And in a hundred other ways, both singly
and together,
You made us an extra high opinion
of your weather;
And now you want to tear it down, although today the blooms
Are saturating all the air with countless rich perfumes.
O Mr. Riley, don't destroy these soul-enchanting views!
There's other Hoosier fiction which by far
we'd rather lose!

Overheard at the Fair.

Piker (in Exposition cafe): Quick! I must get out of here!
Barker: Why, what's the matter?
Piker: There's so much foam on the glasses around here it makes me sea-sick!

World's Fair Bands.
Of all the bands that scatter notes
Around about the Fair,
That sassy band of ignorantes
Is the loudest, I declare.

The World's Fair Commissioners for Indian Territory have been forbidden by Congress to spend $50 of the appropriation to give a luncheon to the editors of the territory while at the World's Fair. How many editors are there in Indian Territory? Two?

In the county saloon fight the ice chest was riddled with bullets. Where will the burglars put the "barkeep" now?

The box lunch is the thing "wherewith to catch the conscience of the king" of high prices at the Fair.

Wait till we take the lid off of the Fair.
We have only raised one edge of it so far.

Mrs. Nagg and Mr. — By Roy L. McCardell.

Illustrated by GENE CARR.

How Can That Persecuted Woman Keep a Servant When That Overbearing Man Continually Causes Turmoil in the Home.

"Get out of here! Leave the house at once!"

Y ES, Della is going! And good riddance. I ever saw her was the worst. All the too, for of all the lazy, slovenly girls time gossiping and listening at the dumb-waiter at what was going on in the flat, it is no wonder she spoiled everything she tried to cook.

"O Mr. Nagg, you go downtown and have nothing to worry you except to meet a few notes in bank, and to try to raise money to pay your hands, and you are all the time grumbling simply because your men go on strike and even when they are working don't tend to business, and spoil materials."

"But if you had to put up with the annoyances and worries a woman has you would have some excuse for the way you would have some quarrel and find fault about this house."

"But, Mr. Nagg, I won't stand it any longer. My nervous system is breaking down. The doctor says I must have some rest, that I must get out in the air; that I must have some relaxation, that I must not excite myself."

"But, of course, you would not care if you saw me drop in my tracks. You would get a second wife who would do nothing for you, and who would henpeck you and wouldn't stand for the treatment I do."

"But I am a poor, silly woman, and anybody can ill treat me. I have had enough trouble and have had enough violence directed at me to make me ill-tempered. What are you standing there for and staring at me as if you hadn't a grain of sense?"

"Am I a curiosity that you should stand there and gaze at me?"

"You notice that you should treat me as you notice that you should treat me."

With silent contempt? Oh, how long will I have to stand this?

"But I should have known. Didn't your own sisters and mother tell me of what a sullen disposition you had? Yes, and a violent one, too. Didn't you make an awful scene when you were 20 years old and refused to let your mother cut your hair any more?"

"She told me, she told me how you ran out of the house and had a loafer in a livery stable cut your hair with a pair of horse clippers just because she wouldn't pumper you by giving you a quarter to go to the barber shop."

"Like boy, like man. That has been your disposition, Mr. Nagg! Always wanting to waste your money, sneering at little home economies, raging with violence when you are crossed, and going around the house like a dumb animal when I am trying to be gay and light-hearted."

"I was telling you about the girl going to leave, you say? Yes, she is going to leave. Because of your actions, Mr. Nagg. Didn't you abuse the poor, terrified creature because she burned your steak the other morning at breakfast?"

"You didn't say a word, it was me? That's right! Blame it all on me. How many of you! How kind! How considerate!"

"She is the best girl I ever had. Of course she is a little slow, and a little careless. But she has been a great comfort to me, when I needed some one to comfort me on account of the way you acted."

"Where were you last night till 8 o'clock? How can you expect me to keep a girl there and gaze at me?"

"You notice that you should treat me as you notice that you should treat me."

Once-recovers from his spell it is very seldom that she falls as completely under the influence of another.

Men, on the contrary, merely pass from one feminine yoke to another and are in a state of chronic enslavement all their lives. Lords of creation, masters of the world, as they proclaim themselves to be, they are really the enslaved slaves to their emotions and consequently slaves to women who through their emotions, govern them. The polygamist sultans of the East and the most exalted monarchs of the world, when Christendom are alike subject to feminine influence, and the "power behind the throne" has become a proverb.

A man's character is made or marred by the feminine influences that surround him. No one but a woman with whom a man has been genuine in love can realize how great is the influence for good or evil she may exert. There are men, of course, so absolutely free from the influence of women that they are immune from the influence of womanhood; but the average susceptible citizen when once a woman gets a good grip on his heart-strings is as clay in the hands of a potter.

The ambitious sweethearts, the extravagant wife, the daughter longing for a fine debut and a splendid wedding, all, if they do not limit their demands to the known capacity of a man's income, are indirectly responsible for any dishonest act he may commit to gratify their whims. Perhaps there are few women for whom they deliberately tempt a man to steal for them, but there are unfortunately many who make the meeting of their impossible demands the condition of domestic happiness, and who, provided they have what they want, are content to ask no questions until the law steps in and asks them. And these are the women of shallow intelligence and too flexible consciences who wreck men's lives.

Wouldn't they be the whole works, the real Peruvian doughnut, and that they were worth coming 10,000 miles to see?

Well, it's all a matter of taste, as the fellow said when he put catsup on his lemon pie.

It's just like I predicted before I left home and Hayville—the World's Fair is a frost for keeps. I can't approve of many of its features, but since I have been appointed special correspondent for the Hayville Herald, I mean to tell the truth, no matter how much Dave Francis and his friends may wince. More anon.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

Whether a girl is fat or not depends on whether she is describing herself or somebody else.

It makes a woman quiver with joy to think that if she were a duchess she could be haughty even to the cook.

A woman's idea of a nice, quiet rest from business for her husband is a chance for him to mow the lawn all day.

It takes a pretty hot lie to bluster a woman's tongue if she is bragging about the smart things her children say.

It is queer how much more afraid a woman is that her dress may trail in the dust when she has on low shoes and gay stockings than when she has on regulation boots.—New York Press.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

PROTECT THE WORKING GIRLS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I have been requested by a young lady telephone operator, who appreciates the power for good exercised by the Post-Dispatch, to write you on a subject of vital importance to hundreds of respectable girls who serve the public in the telephone and telegraph offices in hotels, etc. These girls often work up to a late hour at night, and are frequently accosted and even molested in their way home. It seems to me that a special effort should be made by our police department to check this evil by detaining a few policemen in civilian dress for some of the leading transfer corners, such as Jefferson and Olive, where men are "most do congregate." A few examples would have a salutary effect.

TO SENATOR STONE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Senator Stone has announced, through the press, his early return to save Missouri. If Stone can read the simplest signs he will save his home. He will do more to save Missouri than his presence will. His connection with the notorious scandal has made him an object of contempt to many Democrats, and he can best conserve the interests of the party by absconding himself. If Missouri is ever lost to Democracy it will be through Stone and men of a like character. Democracy has men of which it should be proud, but Senator Stone is not one of them, nor should this self-appointed health preceptor, of a one-man health society, be given the honor as a delegate at large to the National Democratic convention.

ATTENDANCE AT PARIS FAIR.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
"Fair Play." In Monday's paper, gives figures of attendance at the Paris Exposition in comparison to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. He asks for "fair play," why doesn't he give it? You must put things on as nearly equal grounds as possible to make a fair comparison. The Louisiana Purchase Exposition was held in the city of St. Louis, a city of 200,000 people, with a population of 200,000 people, and the price of admission was 10 cents. The Paris Exposition was held in the city of Paris, a city of 2,000,000 people, with a population of 2,000,000 people, and the price of admission was 1 franc. A STRANGER'S OBSERVATIONS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
To a stranger who seems to be a city that can build such a magnificent Exposition is so far behind in its street paving, all of the large eastern cities are excellently paved and kept clean. Here the streets are something awful. A great portion of the city is not paved at all and those streets that are paved need repairs badly. As to cleanliness, the streets are a little away from the business center are filthy and look as if they hadn't seen a broom for months. A great many people will be here this summer and the first thing they will notice will be the bad condition of the streets. St. Louis in its present condition is certainly not an inviting place to people who contemplate looking here. As the evil can be quickly remedied as far as cleaning the streets is concerned, let the people get together and see that the streets are swept and kept in good condition. A campaign for paving St. Louis is bound to remain the largest city west of Chicago and it should not be so far behind the times as to paving and cleanliness.

SPRING SIGNS IN THE CITY.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
For signs of spring I used to list
The songs the bluebirds sing,
And watch for the lambskin on the green,
And the flowers and all such things;
But I find that a quest like this is vain
When I gaze on the busy street,
For look where I may through the live long day
No signs of spring do I meet.
I hear that rattle and click and thud,
'Tis the sound of the moving van,
And "banberries" shouts the Dago now,
Instead of his old "Benan!"
I see the smile on the woman's face,
While the ragman's voice I hear,
And the dust from the car wheels there
Flows up to my window here.
I know that sound from the vacant lot—
'Tis the whack of the baseball bat,
Bless her! there is a shirtwaist girl,
And yonder's a Panama hat!
These, did you say, in the city are
The signs of spring everywhere?
Then away with me to the fields to see
If the flowers and the birds are there!

A Hero In a Trap.

The house was doomed, for, situated as it was, in a somewhat sleepy and straggling suburb, the fire brigade had received tardy warning of the outbreak. In spite of the lateness of the hour—it was near to midnight—the firemen found the inevitable crowd, drawn together by the dull red glow in the sky which every New Yorker learns to read so well, already assembled.

The spectators, many of whom, to judge from their attire, had but recently scrambled out of bed, had, with the courage of numbers boldly invaded the private grounds surrounding the burning building and successfully defied the futile efforts of the few police present to dislodge them. In the center of an open space on the lawn stood a gentleman in evening dress talking to the young inspector of police, and close by, seated on a garden chair, was a lady wearing a costly opera cloak. They were the owners of the mansion and had just returned from the theater. An incessant hum of conjecture and interrogation mingled with the noise of the conflagration.

So rapidly had the fire spread that by the time the engine appeared the reddish-yellow tongues of flames were threatening out from every window, and any hope of saving the building was vain. Nevertheless, some of the contents might be salvaged and the firemen set to work instantly.

"Any one in there?" inquired the chief of the inspector.

"No," replied the latter.

The statement had no sooner left his lips than a shout from the crowd denied it.

"A man! A man on the roof!"

The inspector looked up and saw, clearly outlined against the red glare, the form of a man creeping along the parapet which hedged the sloping roof. His progress was slow, for the parapet was narrow and the flames from the upper windows were already darting above it. He was making for a corner of the roof still comparatively free from the fire.

"He's done for, anyhow," muttered the inspector. "The escape won't nearly reach him, even if he gets there."

The crowd was quieter now, betraying its excitement only by hushed repetitions of the same question. Who was he? How did he get up there? How would he get down? Even the owner of the house could supply no clue to the man's identity, and the inspector was fain to form a theory of his own. The man had covered the most perilous part of his journey and paused at a moment, as though exhausted. Suddenly, clearly above the roaring of the flames, rang out a sound which struck the faintest murmur from the lips of the onlookers. It was the cry of a child, and it came from the midst of the burning mass. The woman seated on the lawn sprang to her feet. "My baby!" she shrieked, and fell headlong.

Again the wall made itself heard, and the crowd thrilled with terror. So the child was not safe with the servant, as the other servants had asserted. The men looked at one another in helpless dismay; they knew they could do nothing, yet they felt a sense of shame. The woman wept. For a moment the man on the roof was forgotten, and then it was noticed that he was cautiously retracing his steps.

"He's goin' back fer the kid. Give him a cheer, boys," shouted some one and the cheer was given.

The unknown heard it, waved his arm in reply and vanished. Then followed a period of dread suspense. It seemed scarcely that the courageous attempt could succeed. The spectators were too excited even to whisper; all eyes were fixed on the spot where the man had disappeared. The moments seemed hours, but at last a single voice cried:

"There he is!"

This was followed by a ringing cheer when a burst of flame revealed the fact that the daring rescuer had a bundle in his arms. Steadying himself for a moment, he recommended the now doubly perilous task of creeping along the parapet, and a hush fell on the breathless watchers below. They spoke only in hurried whispers, as if fearful that a loud word might reach him and cause a catastrophe. From time to time the dense volumes of smoke, slashed with vivid tongues of fire, hid him from view, but he reappeared.

"He'll do it now," said one. "Gosh, ain't he got nerve!"

In fact, the man's very deliberation was painful to watch, but at last he reached the one corner of the building not entirely in the grip of the fire, though it was bursting out from the windows beneath his feet.

"What will he do now?"

The question was on the lips of all in the minds of all, for the top of the escape was a good 12 feet below the parapet. The man did not hesitate. Placing the bundle on the roof, he hurriedly unwound something from his waist. Then he stooped and seemed to be making one end of it fast. The other end fell down almost to the top of the fire escape. It appeared to be a miniature ladder formed of rope, and terribly frail it looked to those below. The unknown straddled the parapet and stood on the ladder a moment, as though testing the fastening. Then he leaned forward, and, catching up the bundle in his left arm, began to descend, clinging to the ladder with his free hand.

So long as the foothold lasted the man's task was apparently not too difficult, but soon he had to descend hanging only by his right arm, sliding his hand from rung to rung down the side of the ladder. These few moments were agonizing. The most callous in the crowd shivered at the sight of a fellow-creature dangling like a spider on a thread in the midst of flames which darted about him like great serpents. When at length he reached the end, his feet were directly above the mouth of the escape, and a score of friendly voices shouted to him to let go. A moment later, the child, uninjured, was in its mother's hands.

The rescuer, a rough-looking man of middle age, lay senseless on the lawn. The inspector knelt beside him and wiped the smoke-blackened features with a wet cloth. Presently the man opened his eyes and staggered weakly to his feet. The inspector placed a hand on his shoulder. "Richard Slagg," he said, "I arrest you for burglary."

The accused looked at the ring of faces with great success and others are buying and training dogs in order to follow the example. "What advantage, as a caddie, has the dog over the boy?" was the question put the other day to one of the exponents of the dog-caddie idea. He replied: "The boy caddie costs from 15 cents to 25 cents an hour. An afternoon's golfing with a boy eats a big hole in a dollar. But a dog caddie costs nothing. With the boy caddie you are constantly losing balls. Balls cost $1 and $4 a dozen, and when one disappears your boy is none too anxious to help you find it, for if he finds it later himself he can sell it at a good price. But with the dog caddie you never lose a ball. He nosed through the tall weeds, finds it and picks it up in his mouth." It has been found that the best way to fasten the sticks to the dog is by means of a stout harness with loops, two or three on each side.

The mother-in-law is the most momentous social question of the day in Japan. A woman prays that she may become a mother-in-law, because it is only in that capacity that she is ever allowed to show human weaknesses. These are not, as one might imagine, at the expense of her son-in-law, because in theory there is no such thing as a son-in-law in Japan, except where a man has married an heiress with no brothers. In that case it is the man and not the woman who is a slave and liable to be divorced just as one discharges a cub when it is no longer wanted. It is he who is dressed like a corpse when he leaves his parents' house, as a sign that he is dead to his parents' family. It is he whose change of owner is registered at the police station, so that in Japanese literature it is the gentle daughter-in-law who is the victim of the mother-in-law's tantrums.

The census bureau has found that the exact center of population at the census of 1900 was in latitude 39 degrees 9 minutes and 36 seconds north, longitude 85 degrees 48 minutes and 54 seconds west. If a person is desirous of visiting the spot a better idea of its location can be got by asking most any resident of Columbus. Almost invariably the answer to such a question will be: "Five miles southwest of Columbus in Hen Marr's barn lot." The center was recently marked by a monument.

THE "YELLOW PERIL" IN SOUTH AFRICA.

The Real Reason Why Coolies Are to Be Introduced Is That White Men Would Vote, Yellow Men Would Not—The Economic Argument Unsound.

Mr. Herbert Samuel, a distinguished member of the British Parliament, writing in the Contemporary Review, has shown as no other opponent has yet done the "milk in the cocoanut" as to the desire of South African mine-owners for Chinese labor. The objection to this practical slavery has often been stated. Mr. Samuel can add no word to deepen the public sense of the horror of it in men not blinded by love of dividends. But what Mr. Samuel makes clear for the first time to American readers is that coolies are not necessary even to the maintenance of dividends.

The mines might be run with expensive white labor as cheaply as they have been run by cheap Kaffir labor if only the mine-owners would put in labor-saving machinery such as is used profitably by highly-paid men in our own mines. The following statement of the literature seems almost incredible:

"One of the many inaccuracies which have served to confuse the minds of those who have given attention to this subject," writes Mr. Samuel, "asserts that nowhere has the science of mining engineering reached such a pitch of perfection as on the Rand. In certain directions it may be so. In the use of devices to economize labor the reverse is the case. In none of the Transvaal mines, with, I believe, the single exception of the Village Main Reef, is there any system of steam or electrical haulage underground. In none is there a horse or a mule to supplement the brute force of human labor. Every tubful of rock is pushed from the working place to the shaft by men—a system of traction which, were it still existing in a coal or iron-stone mine in England, would command the attention of experts as a remarkable illustration of primitive methods, as an interesting survival of the almost forgotten devices of a bygone day.

The use of machine drills, again, is

ODDITIES.

The dog caddie is the striking innovation that presents itself in spring golfing in the East. Some New York women have introduced the dog caddie upon the links with great success and others are buying and training dogs in order to follow the example. "What advantage, as a caddie, has the dog over the boy?" was the question put the other day to one of the exponents of the dog-caddie idea. He replied: "The boy caddie costs from 15 cents to 25 cents an hour. An afternoon's golfing with a boy eats a big hole in a dollar. But a dog caddie costs nothing. It is he whose change of owner is registered at the police station, so that in Japanese literature it is the gentle daughter-in-law who is the victim of the mother-in-law's tantrums.

Henry Marr, a farmer, who lives near Columbus, Bartholomew County, Ind., is the center man of the population of the whole United States. The census bureau has found that the exact center of population at the census of 1900 was in latitude 39 degrees 9 minutes and 36 seconds north, longitude 85 degrees 48 minutes and 54 seconds west. If a person is desirous of visiting the spot a better idea of its location can be got by asking most any resident of Columbus. Almost invariably the answer to such a question will be: "Five miles southwest of Columbus in Hen Marr's barn lot." The center was recently marked by a monument.

Sunflower Philosophy.

From Atchison (Kan.) Globe: "A man who has a lot of money and no sense is usually a very severe critic. After a woman has taken singing lessons she may not be much of a singer, but she is a great critic. No man enjoys a surprise party after passing his twelfth birthday. There are circumstances under which the boldest bull-dog will look sheepish. If you will take care of yourself, young man, it is possible to have fun without getting drunk. It is about time for some women's society to appear and attempt to stop the war between Japan and Russia."

Publication.
The knight printed a kiss upon the maiden's red lips and the dim old halls echoed with the sounds thereof.
"Gadzooks! Can't you print without publishing?" exclaimed the Lady Alice, with just a trace of irritation.—Puck.

Probably Nothing.
A man tried to get a pink fuchsia to grow in St. Petersburg Russia. But always in vain.
"I'll be cried, in much pain: 'Will nothing, O fuchsia, indubitably?'" —Puck.

Nothing to Speak Of.
Miss Skrawney (sighing): Mr. Kladder is such a flatterer.
Miss Ascum: What has he been saying to you?
Miss Skrawney: Oh, tee hee! he's so gallant. He told me I had arms like the Venus de Milo.—Philadelphia Press.

Curious Condensations.

There are in use in the United States 1,600,000 miles of telegraph wire. The ago at which the greatest number of Japanese girls marry is between 20 and 22. F. Marion Crawford, the novelist, has gone to Italy, and in his Italian home will revise his biography of Pope Leo XIII. King Edward has set his face against long dinners of numerous courses, and has declared war on dinners of more than six courses. The Seventy-First Regiment, Virginia Volunteer Infantry, with 500 officers and men, will camp at the World's Fair Aug. 1 to 10, inclusive. The earliest spur known consisted of a sharp point mounted on a base to fasten about the heel. Antiquarians place its date at from 300 to 100 B. C. For a new variety of rhubarb it is claimed that it not only fruits all the year round, but that its flavor resembles a combination of the raspberry and strawberry. There are more than a dozen business women in Chicago enjoying incomes of from $500 to $10,000 a year resulting from their own enterprises, prompted and managed by themselves. The present Trinity Church at the head of Wall street, New York, is the third edifice of that name, the two preceding structures erected upon the same ground having been burned. Theodore Piddock, a Washington (N. J.) farmer, claims to have the oldest plow in America. He has also many other old farming implements, and the lot will be shown at the St. Louis Fair. In 1873 in Germany 1,500,000 trees are said to have been destroyed in the Harts forest alone by two small species of beetles. The larvae burrow beneath the bark and thus cause the injury to the growing trees. The Transiberian Railway is nearly 6000 miles long, and cost, in rough figures, $5,000,000. The first sod was turned in 1893, and in nine years 275 miles were laid, including 30 miles of bridges.

Harsh "Mothers."

From the Louisville Courier-Journal. Here is a quotation from the New York Sun's report of a busy meeting of the New York City Mothers' Club in the midst of an exciting election of officers: "Everyone was talking at once, and Mrs. Hastings was rapping for order when a shrill cry went through the hall. Every woman looked around. "I want my mamma," demanded a disgusted looking boy about 5 years old. Every woman inspected him. "I want my mamma; I'm hungry," insisted the boy. "Run away, dear, we are busy," said one of the members of the club which teaches mothers how to care for their children. "I won't go," declared the boy. "My mamma's here and I'm hungry and it's half past 5—a man said so." "None of the members claimed the boy, but he finally spied a large lady in violet, who was talking loud and fast. "That's her," he declared, and rushed for her, while the Mothers' Club suspended business in horror and amazement. "No children are allowed at these meetings," remarked one of the officers from the platform, and the large lady, declaring that her boy was as good as anybody, retired without casting her vote. A few moments later a small girl appeared with "mother's rubbers." She was as quickly banished. "Why don't you join the club?" asked one of the mothers of a woman reporter, later. "I'm not eligible. I am not even married," explained the reporter. "That doesn't make any difference. Neither am I," said the Mother. "We are organized to help mothers and to teach them how to treat their children."

She Liked the Beans.
Congressman Mahon of Pennsylvania sent a package of beans secured from his guests at the agricultural department to a nice old lady residing in his congressional district, thinking she would like to plant them in her garden.
In writing to Mr. Mahon she said: "Those were superb beans you sent me. I cooked them for dinner, and they made the finest soup I ever tasted. Thank you, ever so much."

Indispensable.

LaMonte: Some of the greatest writers tell us that the indispensable is a man's imagination.
LaMonte: Nonsense! Why a married man must have a superb imagination to get up excuses when he is absent.

SETAUKET HAS CALL

IN FOURTH

Distance Is Too Great for M. F. Tarpey, Who, However, Will Have Good Following.

LARGE FIELDS IN ALL EVENTS

With Possible Exception of Third Race This May Prove Day of Surprises to Talent.

By RICHARD D. WALSH.

(Associate Judge Union Jockey Club.)

The Post-Dispatch Turf Expert.

Fifty-eight horses are entered to start at Union Park today, and large fields of this kind will make it difficult for the handicapper to select the winner. In large fields there is always danger of interference, and unless a horse manages to get off in front, it has little chance of winning unless it is much superior to its company.

Today's feature will be the fourth race, a handicap at a mile and a sixteenth, for 2-year-olds and upward. The Messenger will carry 115 pounds instead of 110, having incurred a penalty of five pounds for his victory yesterday. If M. F. Tarpey goes to the post in this race he will have strong following on account of his fine performance yesterday. He will carry the same weight, will be ridden by the same jockey, and on a similar track. But the distance is farther and the company is better than he met in yesterday's contest. Setauket is in this race with the comfortable weight of 106 pounds. That is considerably less than he has been carrying in his recent victories, and with a good day in the saddle I think he will deliver the goods all right.

With one exception—the third—all the races on the Union program today are difficult to diagnose and surprises may be expected. Tomorrow will likely be favorite in the opening event, but Countess Clara can beat her if she (the Countess) can run as well as she did at Hot Springs last March. St. Louis is a good out-of-the-horse chance here and may spoil the plans of the Pioneers and Clara followers. On account of the readjustment in weights among the 2-year-olds in the second race, which seems to favor Inquiry, I will select him to win. Bear Hunter and Golden Flower will be the contenders. The best bet of the day by long odds is Lord Hermance in the third race. Some might give him an argument under equal conditions, but the race here cannot be overlooked. He showed the speed in his race yesterday, and the horse is a little better, but even with this disadvantage he looks much the best of the others and should be as good as this. Belle Mahone seems to be in a soft spot in the last race, a 1 1/2 mile and should easily defeat the dogs that are opposed to her here. Tempt and Leech may run second and third, but a low price Low Cut with 90 pounds up might be worth a small bet.

FAULTLESS FIELDING OF ### CARDINALS BEATS BOSTON.

The Cardinals made an auspicious opening against Boston at League Park Wednesday afternoon taking the first game of the series by a 4-0 score. The Cardinals' batting was at a premium for innings in yesterday's game, but the Cardinals suddenly developed in the last game and the Cardinals' fielding was a curve and even hit in the ninth inning was the total output of the local hit makers. Nickerson hit a home run and his team fielded faultlessly and the two runs were made off Nichols himself. The Boston men played with errors and several dumb plays that could not be penalized in the column of scores. These contributed largely to the Cardinals' victory.

The Cardinals also did some fast work on the bases, and altogether played a different game from the one that was played behind Joe Corbett in the previous game with the Giants. Even Burke at short was above reproach and played like a champion. The Cardinals gave the batters a scare in the ninth. With two men down, Rayner singled and Delahanty, batting for Wilhelm, came up with a drive into left field. Barclay fell in fielding the hit, but Braun, backing him up, fielded the ball in time to hold Rayner at third. A single would have meant the game, but Al Geier could do no more than to ground to Burke, who easily threw him out at first. Score: Cardinals, 4; Boston, 0.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PARK, May 12.—

With one victory to their credit, the Cardinals went out against the Boston at League Park today in the second game of the series.

The field was dry and fast, and there was practically no wind, which made fielding easier than in the first match yesterday. The Boston's battery was announced as Pittinger and Moran, while Taylor and Grady were Nichols' choice for the second game. Taylor had plenty of speed and was hailed with joy by the bleachers while warming up before the game.

The two teams will meet tomorrow, resuming play Saturday and completing the series Sunday.

The batting order:

St. Louis: Shannon 1b, Parrell 2b, Burke 2b, Ray 2b, Barclay 1b, Geier 2b, Nichols 1b, Taylor, p.

Boston: Grady 1b, Moran 2b, Grady 2b, Grady 2b, Grady 2b, Grady 2b, Grady 2b, Grady 2b, Pittinger, p.

Wax Taper, Once Famous Runner, Is Declared "Down and Out" and Forever Ends His Racing Days

The Boston and the Cardinals are scheduled to go on in the second round of the four-game series at League Park this afternoon.

TAYLOR IN TODAY FOR CARDINALS

The closing victory over the Giants in the final game of the series has put new heart into the Cardinals, and they will not lose today from lack of confidence.

The pitching question today seems up to Jack Taylor. Taylor has not worked for several days, and should be in good condition for today's game. Mike O'Neill might be considered, but he has not been "right" for some time, and will probably not be worked in the next four or five games. Mike Grady will catch.

Pittinger will probably be the selection of the Boston manager for today's game, and he and Taylor should furnish a good pitcher's tilt. Moran will do the receiving for him.

The Cardinals played in the worst kind of hard luck and four errors in the infield hurt their chances. The four errors are all charged to Hunter. Hill, the Browns' crack third baseman, Hill is not yet himself and played a ragged game yesterday throwing wild on four out of five chances. The Browns were also unable to hit Pat ten when they came against the Cardinals. The Cardinals played below their speed. The Senators started by scoring in the first four innings they batted out eight hits and six runs. Then Howell went to the bench and Moran went in to save the day. He pitched good ball, fanning three men and holding the Senators down to three hits in the five last innings. Wallace and Jones did some fast and clever work in the infield. The former covered about half of the field by himself and Jones picked up and put out all kinds of throws at first. Jones also did some lively pounding, getting a triple and double in his four times up.

With the score 7 to 2 in the ninth inning Jones attempted to start a hitting rally. He smashed the first ball out to the outfield for a double. But Hill was good only for an infield out which advanced Jones a base. Stogden was also unable to find the ball safely though he hit hard enough to get Jones in on the out.

Score: Cardinals, 7; Browns, 2.
